The Course

This course is intended as an introduction to Greek and Roman mythology. The aim is to acquaint students to the major mythological characters and stories. Greek and Roman gods, goddesses, demigods, heroes and their stories have been employed and interpreted in works of art, literature, and music throughout centuries. The course offers a basic yet solid background to students who wish to have a better understanding of such reflections in various fields of cultural production.

Without disregarding the religious and ritual aspects of mythology, we will get to know the characters and their stories as well as their reflections in art. Following the trail of Ovid, we will explore how myths were used in the visual arts.

Important Note: This syllabus may be subject to change. It is the student’s responsibility to follow announcements and e-mails regarding all issues related to this course.
